WELCOME TO THE BOOKISH PLAZA eZINE

This fall came the announcement of the passing of two Dutch Caribbean writers. Manchi Pieters writes youth literature and is very known among young people. The other writer is Frank Martinus Arion, one of the prominent writers in the Caribbean. His magnum opus is his novel Dubbelspel [Double Play], for which he received the Van der Hoogt Prize in 1973.

NEW ARRIVALS!

Geniale Anarchie
Boeli van Leeuwen

This is a new edition of this nearly classic book on the insights of the island of Curaçao. The Curaçao author Boeli van Leeuwen (1922) wrote a weekly column for a year in the Curaçaosche Courant. This is compiled in this book and reveals van Leeuwen in top form. On its characteristic inimitably the author outlines a razor sharpened image of his native island: fascinating, sometimes hard, but always deeply human.

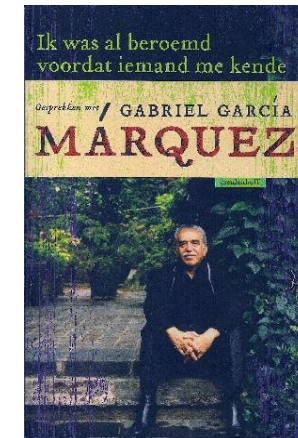

Non-fiction € 15,00

Slavernij. Een geschiedenis
Dirk J. Tang

The author describes the long history of slavery and the slave trade. What it means for people who were enslaved and lost everything of value. He describes how and when inhabitants of the Republic became part of a trading system that pursues on a perfidious way profit maximization. How everyday life was in the largest Dutch colony, Suriname. Why proud Africans revolted against exploitation and humiliation. How slavery and the slave trade end up painfully and slowly disappeared from the Netherlands and the Dutch colonies.

Non-fiction € 15,00

Ik was al beroemd voordat iemand mij kende
Gabriel García Márquez

García Márquez is someone who is only exceptionally interviewed. However, over the years a number of Spanish-language journalists found their way to him. They cover his entire career: from the early, comet-like success to his years as award-winning bestselling author. He talks about his youth, his college days, his years as a journalist, the problems of the fame and he goes into details on his most famous books.

Non-fiction € 6,50
